rain must come as well as balmy zephyrs and the gently falling due. Your storn and flood and fire are great purifiers Spenser's prophetic eye seems to have lit upon this November cyclone when he

So do the wind and than ler cleanse the sir, So working occsositle and purpe the wine: So looped and pruned trees do hourish fair; so doth the fire the drosy gold renne.

There was accel of a good deal of cleansing and purifying; there has been no lack o lopping and pruning.

Prepare for 1884. The meeting of the Lincoln Club, to night, should be largely attended. Every member should be there; and, by a libera resolution of the club, that includes every Republican voter in the city until the first of next month. At to-night's meeting meas ures of vital interest to the club are to b considered, and since it is desired that the management shall be in the fullest sens popular, members should be present to spenk their will. The short but active and honorable ca reer of the Lincoln Club is an indication of the service it might render to the Republican party, and, through that instrumentality, to the cause of good government. It has been a center of attraction, a rallying point, to the Republicans in this city and county and district. Comprehensive in its organization and its aims, it has invited all Republicans to come and enjoy its benefits The hearty response has shown that there is a field and a mission for such a Republi can agency hereabouts. But the work is only well begun. We have necomplished something, and in that success the Lincoln Club has borne a conspicuous and gallant part. More remains, and we look to the Lincoln Club to help in that.

This struggle of right against wrong, o the national idea against the narrow policy of the Democratic party, is unceasing. The conflict is irrepressible, for the two parties represent extremes of thought which can ver be reconciled. When clash comes, as in a political campaign parties feel the need of organization, with out which vitality is wasted, forces straggle and are not rallied.

In the Lincoln Club we have the abiding nucleus of an effective campaign organization. It is a standing army, always on guard, always ready to take the field. It is a disciplined force, to which the militia and raw recruits may be added on ocea sion with good results. The club can become and ought to become a potent influ-ence for good not only in this district but in the State, and it falls upon the Republicans of Wheeling to give it that strength.

We are not done rejoleing over, a splen did victory in this district. Let us not begin to forget that a greater battle is to be fought on a larger field for a higher prize two years hence. We must sow to-day that we may reap to-morrow.

CHEAP LIVING.

A Locality Where the Problem of Ex Solved.

Some years ago there was a discussion in the newspapers on the possibility of a man living on £300 a year. A certain sad interest surrounds the mere reference to the controversy. To-day it is prabable that no e litor, having a conscientious regard for his space, would permit the raising of such a question in his columns. It would be to as much useful purpose as if the discussion was upon the possibility of walking on the ceiling, or going from Charing Cross to Aldgate by skipping from lamp post to Aldgate by skipping from lamp post to lamp post.

Nevertheless there are circumstances wherein a man, even at the present day, may live, not on 2500, but 2100 a year, and enjoy a considerable amount of luxury. Of course it is not in England, But against the disadvantages of exile from home must be put the advantage of travel and the opportunities of improving the accent in foreign languages. In many a saug pension in northern Italy or Switzerland a man might live on £100 a year like a prince, being absolutely without care for the things of this world—no taxes to pay, no coals or of this world—no taxes to pay, no coals or gas, no repairs, no servants; while rent is so ingeniously mixed up with breaklast, luncheon, and dinner that it appears to have no existence as a direct charge.

have no existence and direct charge.

Six frances a day, equal to a trifle less than 5 shillings, is the average charge in a Swiss pension, where anything like a stay like ande. People may pay more or less; but it is exceedingly well done for 6 francs. A great deal depends upon the allotment of a room. But our substantial friend of the respectability to be derived from £300 a*year, and with the prospect of a moder-ately prolonged stay, is likely to be care-fully looked after in this respect. The six fally looked after in this respect. The six frames include not only rent and attendance, but three good meals a day. There is bread and butter and coffee, or chocolate, or tea (this is not recommended), at whatever hour one pleases. At 1 o'clock lauch, generally two courses of hot meat—certainly one—with cold meat to fill up interstices. The dinner is a substantial meal of a july proposed and the proposed and the content of the proposed and the cold meat of the up to the u seventh day of November when it left the besses to try their own devices without popular support. Two years hence it will take the field with energy and might, all its forces mobilized, under new leaders and with a new purpose, as magnificent an army as ever went to battle for a good cause.

Sexume Democrats—and there are a good many of them—would find it in their hears to do a little more rejoicing if they could banish from before their eyes the fear of their party leaders. They remember that the Democratic tidal wave has swept over the land before, and they do not forget how energetically the leaders turned in to roll it back. The back-action of a fling of this sort does more damage than the front end of it; which is why we are not bowed down.

It was very much like a storm, and there is a good deal of seeming destruction of one sort and another; but there have been storms before, and the blasted face of nature has smiled again. The wind and rain must come as well as balny zephyrs and the contly folling due. Vern stead
